Situation analysis 2019

- The Nordic countries have important strengths when it comes to supporting a healthy start in life
 - Free healthcare and social service, high participation in prenatal care and infant and child healthcare, universal access to ECEC, substantial parental leave, growing emphasis on mental health and supporting the parent-child relationship
- But also numerous areas for improvement
 - Use of evidence-based methods, support for professional development, identification and response to early risk factors, early intervention, inequity in access to services, weaknesses in cross-sectoral collaboration and challenges relating to ECEC

Monetary and economic evaluation.

The Prosperity Act passed as law in June 2021.

Extensive review of all legislation regarding children's services continued.

More bills presented to parliament regarding changes to other relevant legislation and more to come.

Formal effect of the legislation in 2022.

Implementation phase - three to five years.

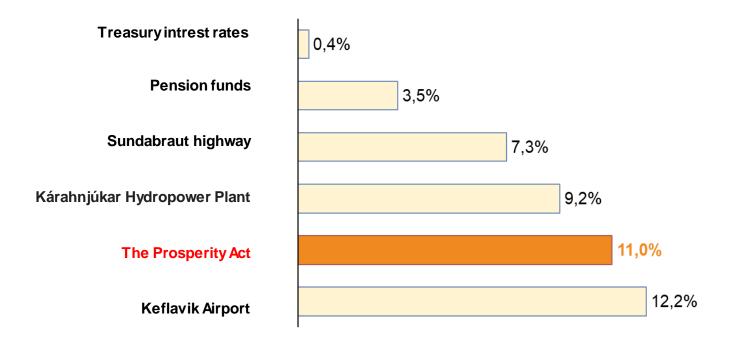

The first 1000 days network, the situation in Iceland

- National reference group
 - relevant stakeholders

- High on the agenda in Iceland:
 - gap between parent leave and childcare and the preparedness of preschool to enrol children under 2years old.
 - act on the integration of services in the interest of the children's prosperity

Cost effectiveness and economic impact

During the first years of the Prosperity Act's implementation, costs will be higher than returns. In the long run, returns will far outweigh the costs. The economic analysis concludes that in or around the year 2070, returns should reach 11%. In addition, the Prosperity Act will have no negative environmental impact and only a positive impact on the lives of children and their families, leading to increased overall well-being and prosperity of the nation
